WELCOME TO GEMCO SYDNEY OUTSTANDING ACHIEVER/TALENT AWARDS 2022

Hello everyone,

It's our pleasure to welcome you all to this exclusive souvenir of the Gemco Sydney Outstanding Achiever/Talent awards 2022. At these awards, we recognize and reward individuals from the South Asian community in Australia who have excelled in their chosen field.

Many of you would remember that our first edition of the awards was held in 2018. It was a very successful event and of course, they were many new learnings for us along the way too. Encouraged by the 2018 Awards, we are back with the new edition, bigger and better.

What makes this edition of the Awards truly gratifying is both the participation of potential award winners as well as the support we have received from the community and our business associates. I take this opportunity to thank everyone of them for coming on board and helping us to put together an event of this scale.

A special mention also goes to the people of our larger community some of whom have been nominated this year, but there would be many who still remain unknown and unrecognized. Through this message we would like to reach out to all of you – if you know about someone who has excelled in their field or have done something inspiring, please nominate them for the next Awards so that we can recognise and reward these silent achievers in our community.

A lot of effort and resources have gone into organising these awards and we really hope that you enjoy this evening as much as we have enjoyed the journey till tonight. A journey that started more than 6 months ago and we are thrilled to be here today and to celebrate the talent and achievements of people from our own community. Thank you very much and we will see you again in the next edition of the Gemco Sydney Outstanding Achiever/Talent Awards.

Have a great night and God bless you all.

What makes us want to excel in life

“To be human is to live to our highest potential”

The Gemco Sydney Awards celebrate achievements by individuals in their pursuit of excellence in their chosen field. Over the years, our team has attempted to understand the drive that makes people want to achieve things, push their limits, and persevere right till the end.

When you think of excellence, what kind of people do you see? Olympic athletes, musicians, artists, creative, and dancers are just a few examples of people who have put in 10,000 hours of focused practice and achieved cult status in their respective fields.

We all want to achieve something and be successful in life. When we set a goal for ourselves, we work hard to accomplish it; however, what happens when we achieve that goal? Do we relax or do we set a higher goal than the one before it?

We discussed all these questions as well as the reasons that make people want to excel in life and the motivation which has inspired people to become more successful, prosperous, and famous. We are happy to share our observations with you.

A high level of individuality and effectiveness

We're all eager to attempt the seemingly impossible, but very few of us actually give it their best shot. The greater the individual's ability and motivation to excel in life, the more likely they are to work harder towards their goal.

The need to prove ourselves is what drives us to strive harder and accomplish something that we are proud of. Individuality allows us to follow a career or profession that we enjoy. Every individual will devote their efforts and time to a pursuit that best demonstrates their true potential.

Never give up and keep moving attitude

The accomplishment of some dreams or part of a dream, does not imply that you are satisfied; instead, achievers set their sights on bigger and higher goals. Pushing yourself and your limits are the only ways to increase your capabilities and strength. One achievement must lead to the next win.

Personal excellence over everything

Exceeding every criterion of expectation is the definition of excellence. Many people around us struggle and are unhappy with their lives because they do not strive for excellence. People who strive for excellence and want to excel in life are joyful, have a sense of inner fulfillment, and contribute positively to their surroundings. Personal excellence is a lifelong process of honing mental and emotional skills to improve in all aspects of our lives, and we must focus on our personal growth and development to attain it.

Personal excellence means regularly and continuously improving your performance so that you can improve every part of your life – family, education, career, finances, relationships, and so on. It is a process of becoming a better version of oneself and improving in all facets of one's life.

Inner focus

The road to success and accomplishment is littered with diversions, disappointments, and setbacks. Countless failures and calamities befell the greatest inventors of our century, but these setbacks did not deter them from achieving ultimate success. As a result, achieving excellence requires unwavering passion and devotion.

It is the same focus that drives achievers of all kinds – global icons, local heroes or the person next door.

As humans, we have a constant desire for popularity, prosperity, and advancement. Through our lives, we battle to reach our full potential. On a personal, professional, and academic level, we are trying to achieve progress and excellence.

Many of us understand what it takes to grow and thrive, some of them are among our winners tonight. They all teach us a vital lesson – we should all aim for excellence at every step, every stage of life.

Navonkar Singh The Sydney-based truck driver has shown exemplary bravery at the McDougalls Hill Caltex service station on 6 December 2019. When the cabin of his truck caught fire while fuelling, Navonkar Singh quickly drove his truck away from the gas station. With smoke filling the cabin, he drove approximately 20 metres away from the fuel tanks until he was forced to exit. He has received Commendation for Brave Conduct – an award conferred for an act of bravery that is worthy of recognition and is the fourth highest Australian Bravery Decoration. Gentle and unassuming to a fault, Navonkar Singh is a true example of courage and humility.

Aditi Mamtani is committed to changing the landscape of formulations/finished products in Australia in 6 different industries (personal care, pharma, pet care, home care) with Arete Labs – the first independent research and development lab in Australia.

Aditi has been awarded the Boosting Female Founders Initiative Grant by the government to expand her Research and Development facility. In conjunction to creating jobs, Arete Labs has helped manufacturing partners save over $1.5 million by suggesting alternatives to plastic.

Janaki Easwar is a 12 year old singer songwriter of Indian Origin who created TV history by becoming the youngest ever to go on 'The Voice' Australia and the first person of Indian origin to do so, opening doors to thousands of young and aspiring artists to dream big and work towards achieving their goals. Janaki has also released her debut single 'Clown' during the lockdown with profound lyrics on mental health. She is working on releasing other songs that she wrote and composed. We will be seeing and hearing a lot more if this talented young girl.

Harinder Kaur Let's get to know Harinder Kaur ji in her own words: I am popularly known as a community leader, an educator, an advocate for gender equality, co-founder and CEO of Harman foundation. I bring years of Senior Management experience along with extensive community work and establishment of programs for people who have lost loved ones, domestic violence victims, poor and needy including financial and emotional support where needed.

However, in 2012, my biggest challenge and grief in life came when my eldest son, Harman Preet Singh at the age of 27, tragically passed away in a car accident. This traumatic event was a turning point of my whole family.

In 2013, we, with the help of family friends co-founded the Harman Foundation in the memory of Harman Preet Singh. Harman Foundation aims to support and assist the subcontinental community with issues including death, domestic violence, family separation, sickness, incarceration, and poverty.

As a volunteer CEO and co-founder of Harman Foundation, I work primarily as a grassroots volunteer actively involved in all fundraising events and acts of community service.

A salute to courage

Let us make an announcement before we go deep decoding bravery and many aspects of it.

We are ecstatic to announce that Navonkar Singh is among the winners tonight for something other than sporting, academic or creative excellence. In fact, this young man is a winner for being a brave and courageous human being!

It's not every day that we come across an incredible story of bravery and valor from our day to day lives. But then comes along a person who, for a few crazy moments, displays remarkable courage that becomes the talk of the town and can inspire future generations.

Navonkar Singh recently demonstrated one such act of bravery that saved hundreds of lives and millions of dollars in assets. He has already been honoured with a Commendation for Brave Conduct by the Governor-General in March 2022.

A salute to courage

What exactly happened?

Navonkar Singh's truck caught fire as he was at a gas station. Instead of fleeing the scene to save his own life, he climbed into the blazing vehicle and drove it away from the gas station. His unselfish act of courage was witnessed by many, and word of his heroic deed quickly spread among the surrounding community. So much so that the Australian government shortlisted him for an Australian Bravery Decoration, eventually awarding him a Commendation for Brave Conduct.

Let us use this moment of pride for our community in Sydney to go deeper into what courage is all about and what motivates someone to act bravely without caring about their own safety.

Image courtesy: www.theaustraliatoday.com.au

What is Courage?

According to Aristotle, courage is a virtue, the highest quality of the mind. According to Richard Avramenko, a political science professor at the University of Wisconsin, courage is the primary means by which humans rise above their individualistic, isolated, and materialistic existence.

Every act of bravery is our fight—our action—response to stressful and dangerous stimuli that has been critical to our species' survival since the beginning. Researchers also claim that several situational variables, including a sense of responsibility to self and others, the powerful effects of group membership, all play a role in certain people's penchant to act bravely.

Taking the right action despite the fear

If you're like most people, you probably associate courage with fearlessness, but this is not true. In reality, courage is defined as taking the right actions despite your fear. Courage is the willingness to respond swiftly without fear, despite any concern or worry that may be pulling you back. Being fearless right in the face of adversity is not considered courageous. Courageous people do have fears, but they are able to control and overcome them so that it doesn't hold them back from taking the right action at the right time. They are the kind of people who use fear to ensure that they do not become overconfident and that the appropriate actions are taken.

But how do they deal with it? Answer to this is rather simple and straightforward. Rather than allowing fear to control them, they've learned to control their emotional response to it.

Being courageous pays

Being more courageous in your life will enable you to effectively respond to challenges and achieve excellent results. Additionally, courage provides you the ability to pursue goals that are essential to you. It also boosts your self-esteem and gives you the courage to believe in your own ability.

Courage demands a clear sense of purpose

Nobody sets out to be courageous. When confronted with a potentially dangerous circumstance, no one knows how they will react. People who are courageous are often those who take a moral stand and have a clear sense of purpose. Many analysts believe that cultivating courage has more to do with emotions—'Follow your heart.'

Courageous people stand up to threats to themselves or the things or people they care about. They act in ways that are consistent with their values. However, there are times when a quiet and thoughtful response is required.

Congratulations and thank you, Navonkar Singh. You are a shining example of what all us aspire to be.
